VOLUME IV, NUMBER 42 THE GOLD CENTER NEVADA CITY, NEVADA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, THE COUNTY SEAT PAPER SEPTEMBER 29, 1930

"TRAILS OF '49,,

(By Barbara McMinn.)

The following essay written for the High School section of the Nugget, is of so much interest that we have taken the liberty of publishing it as a special article.

The history of French Corral is a very interesting one. The tiny village lies at the foothills of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, between the South and Middle forks of the Yuba river. It's altitude is about two thousand feet above level. Many subtropical fruits grow here as well as all fruits grown in the temperate zones.

In 1849, a Frenchman from Frenchman's Bar on the Yuba river built an inclosure (corral) for his mules on the present site of the town and gave the town its name, French Corral.

The people of the town wished later to change the name of the town to Carrolton, a prettier and more musical name, as well as more suggestive of better memories than French Corral, but nothing came of it.

Mining was started on a small scale in 1849 and a trading post was established in a tent by a man named Galloway, in the same year. Gold was the thing that brought people here. Gold, for which people have starved, fought, prayed, and helped each other in the past, present and probably will in the future. In 1851 surface diggings were discovered and in the spring of 1852 a ditch was brought in from Shady Creek by a group of men, among whom were J. Williams, J. Spurry, J. Wadsworth and A. H. and W. M. Eddy.

When water was plentiful to work them, the rich surface mines brought together a goodly number of miners and traders, and the town soon had a population of between three and four hundred.

In 1853 hill diggings were discovered and another ditch was brought in from Shady Creek by the Grizzly Water Company.

In June, 1853, about half of the town was destroyed by fire, again in 1854, and again in 1920. This was, of course, discouraging to the pioneers.

The "diggin's" were highly developed by this time and had proven extensive. Profitable mining soon followed. The cost of developing tunnels and cuts was almost a quarter of a million dollars, while the gold taken out was among the millions.

In 1884 a law was passed forbidding hydraulic mining as it endangered people living in the valleys by filling the rivers so that they overflowed and washed away the homes. With the passage of this law people began dropping away one by one, until only a few are left, between forty and fifty. During the time that the town was flourishing, there were a great many Chinamen here. The remains of their stone foundations are still to be seen. There were markets and stores in their part of town as well as in the part of the town where the white people lived. The Chinamen worked for lower wages in the mines than the white men, then and they were hired in great numbers and all supplies, such as food, dynamite, clothing and mining utensils were brought from Marysville by horse and wagon, which was a hard and dangerous journey. Gold was sent out by the way ofMarysville in the same way, on its way to the mint at San Francisco. Trading was done at the local stores with gold dust and nuggets.

All the tiny towns surrounding French Corral such as Sweetland, North San Juan, North Bloomfield and Lake City, are the remnants of hydraulic mining.

The brave people, who sacrificed themselves to the settling and civilizing of our glorious west are to be revered, praised, and looked up to. All the villages mentioned above have been the scenes of accomplishments, tragedies and happiness to a more or less greater degree. They have a history similar to that of French Corral and are now in about the same condition. There is a tiny school composed of from five to twenty children in each town and several homes. The mining and farming done on a small scale and the school, is all that keeps the town going. Unless hydraulic mining is revived, they will probably die out altogether. This is one of the many stories of the settling of the West.

COUNTY EXHIBITS WIN CASH AND TROPHIES AT STATE AND L. A. FAIRS

Nevada County Trophies are Now on Display at the Court House

Los Angeles County Fair, held at Pomona for the past ten day shas followed the decree of the State fair in awarding Nevada county with ribbons, trophies and cash prizes as announced by W. H. Griffith, secretary-manager of the Nevada county Promotion Board, who was in charge of exhibits at both fairs, and returned Thursday from Pomona bringing home two beautiful silver cups, awarded as sweepstake prizes for apples, a number of ribbons, besides $250 in cash. The trophies and ribbons are on display in the corridor at the court house.

The silver cups are awarded as the sweepstake prize for apples and the other was first prize for rack display of apples.

A prize of $100 for the county display, which ranked sixth among all counties exhibiting, and additional prizes were awarded for various other exhibits including apples, and other fruits, nuts and vegetables.

The detailed list of ribbons as announced by Griffith are: First for Delicious, Black Ben, Jonathan, Winesap, Wilson Red, Arkansas Black, Rhode Island Greening, King David and Winter Banana apples.

Second for Smith Cider, Gravenstein, Golden Delicious, Yellow Newtown Pippin, Baldwin and Belleflour apples.

Third for Ben Davis and Spitzenberg apples.

There were also ten first prizes awarded for plate displays of pears, 17 second prizes for plate displays of pears; 13 first for plate displays of apples, and 8 second prizes for plate displays of apples.

Now at Riverside

The county's display has been taken to Riverside fair where it will be on display this week.

A summary of the prizes awarded at the State Fair and county Fair aggregates $500 cash, three silver cups, many blue, red and white ribbons for first, second and third prizes.

Much of the exhibit came from the magnificent orchards and farm lands of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Shaw, laying between here and Grass Valley.

Mr. Griffith stated that the display of such fine fruits, vegetables and nuts elicited many questions and much surprise, as Nevada county seemed to be a vague country, far to the north and out of the beaten paths of tourists who knew this part of the state mainly by San Francisco, Sacramento anl Lake Tahoe.

QUEEN LIL MINE IS WORKING STEADILY AND FUTURE LOOKS BRIGHT

PERSISTENT DEVELOPMENT IS GRADUALLY SHOWING RESULTS

Steady progress in development is reported from the Queen Lil property. Work is being prosecuted on three levels of the mine and some production is resulting. Production of low grade ore is about sufficient to operate the mill one shift daily. Occasional pockets of higher grade material have been found and to date the operators are encouraged in the belief that they will eventually develop a profitable mine.

Underground work consists of drifting, raising and stoping on the three levels mentioned above. No definite objectives are in sight other than development o fthe Queen Lil vein which is a small but persistent vein with a dip counter to the neighboring veins in the Champion group. Its production to date has been creditable and the operator sare hopeful that larger and richer shoots of ore will be found to occur.

The property is equipped with a ten stamp mill and a mine plant consisting of adequate hoisting, air compressing and accessory equipment to maintain a moderate sized operation. Eight men are steadily employed.

HOGE DEVELOPMENT COMPANY STRIKES RICH NEW PAY STREAK

EAST DRIFT YIELDS WONDERFUL ORE ASSAYING $66.00 TO THE TON—STRIKE SIGNIFICENT AS WAS MADE IN VIRGIN GROUND

The Hoge Development Company, operating Northeast of town on the old Mike Lynch ranch, and owning a large acreage in the surrounding territory, has made another very important strike in its Eastern development.

This new strike was made some 300 feet East of its new 3 compartment shaft, on the 300 foot level. While the previously rich ore body was opened up about 350 feet West of the main shaft, on the 300 foot level. This new strike, as yet has not shown any free gold, but is of a heavy sulphide, and very similar in character to the Murchie rock. The ledge is from 20 to 30 inches wide and assays $66.00 per ton, and shows evidence of developing into a very fine ore body.

The Hoge Company is opening up a new and virgin country along the line of the granite and slate contact, and from all appearances it is going to develop one of the most important mines in the camp.

The nearest operation was the Davis property of about nine acres, which has a branch, or feeder off the main Hoge Company vein, and was formerly operated by the Western Merger, but was closed down over a year ago.

TEHACHAPI MOUNTAINS MAY REVEAL SECRET OF LOST HORSE MINE

Miss Anna Rose, solitary woman prospector, who has for years been searching the wilds of the Tehachapi mountains near Newhall, California, for the famed Lost Horse mine, has made a gruesome find which may lead to the discovery of the mine.

Miss Rose was digging on a claim which she had located and was suddenly rewarded by finding two human skulls. She immediately notified the authorities and steps are being taken to uncover the mystery of their location. Meanwhile, Miss Rose is hugging the great thought that she is near her heart's desire, as "Irish" Reilly, the former owner of Lost Horse Mine, was known to have produced rich ore, and had made his braggs that he had killed three Indians and one white man whom he found working the property and had buried them near his mine.

If the woman's dreams come true and she has been successful in her search, she would become fabuously rich as the mine was only partially developed but was known to be of great value.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will leave soon for Lake Tahoe to attend the state convention of school principals, Mrs. Newall remaining in this city until their return.

WRIGHT'S ACCUSER RETRACTS CHARGES

Numerous letters signed by a fictitious person and "A Voter," were mailed just prior to the primary election to many voters or Nevada county. In this letter the character of W. E. Wright was ruthlessly maligned and his reputation maliciously besmirched and for proof of the accusations made the voters were requested to write to a well known attorney in Sacramento, California. in these letters it was stated tnat 2,000 letters were being mailed to the voters of Nevada county.

Upon inquiry, the attorney replied in writing and in substance, that he knew Mr. W. E. Wright and personally had a good opinion of him and knew nothing derogatory of him; that he did not know nor had he ever heard of the individual who signed a great number of these defamatory circulated letters and that it appeared that some one was attempting to injure Mr. Wright in his professin and using a fictitious name as a cloak.

At considerable time, trouble and expense, indisputable proofs were secured as to the individual who was supplying and making these false, malicious and defamatory reports, and upon which reports the voters were requested and solicited "to help defeat" the disreputable man holding the office of District Attorney of Nevada County.

W. E. Wright's accuser, being legally and lawfully confronted with the proofs, made a full and complete public retraction, signed and duly acknowledged, and which is in part as follows:

"Wheras, heretofore certain letters have been written to Nevada County, California, concerning the character of William E. Wright, the District Attorney of Nevada County, and

"Whereas, I desire to retract any and all statements heretofore made by me concerning W. E. Wright

"Now, I, the undersigned, retract the statements made that W. E. Wright is of a disreputable character. I hereby certify on my honor that I know nothing whatever against the character of W. E. Wright and I wish finally to state that I deeply regret having wronged Mr. Wright and I publicly apologize for it and hereby publicly retract any and all mistatements and misrepresentations made by me or concerning W. E. Wright, District attorney of Nevada County."

Mr. Wright states that these accusations, extensively circulated, were false and maliciously made and circulated, and not only in an attempt to defeat his election as District Attorney, but to discredit him in his profession and to humiliate himself and family.

W. E. Wright further states that this retraction is published, as it is a public apology to clear his name which has been so wantnaly maligned and maliciously besmirched and that he intends to protect his good name, character and reputation at all costs.

MAYFLOWER PROMISES LARGE RETURNS AS VISIONED BY OWNERS

Employees are to Share in the Profits of Mine Through Faithful Service

H. A .Hood and his associates are now reopening the Mayflower mine in the Canada Hill section, south of Nevada City, and according to Mr. Hood, the company has adopted a policy whereby the employees will share in the profits of the mine, "not from investment in stock, Mr. Hood said, but as the result of faithful service for the company they will receive not only honest wage, but ten per cent of the wealth they help to create for the company which will be distributed annually before any dividends will be paid to stockholders. This to be participated in after one year of continuous employment and details of the plan are now in process of being worked out.

This is the first mine, perhaps, in this section to adopt this policy.

The following claims are numbered in the Mayflower group, which is well known in the Nevada City district: The Mayflower, Beckman, North Star, Butterfly, Big Blue, Alaska, a continuation of the Orleans vein; the Floyd Grant, Greenman, Kellogg, Hixon, Enterprise, Rose and others.

In the early days of quartz mining in the Nevada City district a number of these mines were owned by the late W. H. Martin, John and Thomas H. Walters. As a matter of interest it is authentically known that during their regime President Herbert Hoover worked in the Mayflower mine in October 1895, receiving as his daily wage $2.50. This was immediately following Hoover's graduation from Stanford, and his idea was to get practical experience as a mining engineer. He afterwards became, as we all know, one of the leading mining engineers of the world.

VENISON GRACES TABLE AT ELKS LODGE DINNER

Thursday evening the Nevada City lodge of Elks enjoyed the first of the new season's semi-monthly dinners which was served in the banquet room at the Elks Club, on Pine street.

Venison formed an important and exalted partof the menu, and was, we are informed, prepared in a manner to meet the approval of the most fastidious epicure, by Sheriff George R. Carter, and though the venison was donated from portions of three separate deer the company of about ninety Elks and guests, were delighted with the sumptuous repast.

Exalted Ruler H. A. Curnow was ex-officio chairman of a committee which made several unsuccessful attempts to furnish th evenison for the feast, and had almost despaired of filling the demand, when three hunters, not on the committee came forward and presented the club with the required amount with the success mentioned above.

At the regular Elks meeting Friday evening, venison sandwiches and clam chowder were served by the social sessions committee.

SEVERAL BLOCKS OF CAYOTE STREET PAVED

One thousand six hundred feet of Cayote street has been paved during the past week or two, and now presents, not only afine appearance but is on a par with any street in the district.

In places where necessary the paving is 20 feet wide, and all side street approaches were paved also, making intersections from Main to Alexander streets desirably smooth.

The street will probably be thrown open for traffic Tuesday, as the oil coating and screenings were applied and the rolling done Saturday.

The oil truck and big roller were loaned by the county and the crude oil used was purchased from the Alpha Hardware and Supply Company and brought here from their new plant at Grass Valley.

City Marshall L. W. Jennings, City Trustee Fred C. Worth and City Clerk Fred W. Calahan were directly responsible for the work in which they were assisted gratis by owners of property residing on the street, also employing several workmen.

Rose in All Ages Has Lent Itself to Legend

Every language seems to have its legends of the rose. A Hindu myth says that Vishu discovered his wife in the heart of a rose. A Greek myth tells how Cupid exacted from the god of silence a promise that the loves of his mother, Venus, be not betrayed; the oath was taken "under the rose," and to this day we use the idiomatic phrase "sub rosa" to denote secrecy. A Persian legend relates that when Nimrod commanded the infant prophet, Abraham, be thrown upon the pyre and destroyed, the flames turned to roses "whereon the child slumbered sweetly." As charming is a parallel story related by Sir John Mandeville: a maiden of Bethlehem was accused by a jealous lover and thrown to the flames, and when she implored proof of her innocence the fire turned to red roses about her feet.

AUTO CRASH INJURES LOCAL RESIDENTS

Word has been received here of an automobile accident, near Willetts in which Mr. and Mrs. Henry Witter of Hobart Mills, Mrs. W. P. Oliver of Grass Valley and Mrs. Frank Hansen of Lower Lake, Lake county, received injuries which placed them in Willetts Memorial Hospital. Investigation pointed to the theory that the brakes of their machine locked on a steep descent, pitching the car into a large tree.

All four of the injured persons are present or former residents of Grass Vally. Henry Witter is a deputy sheriff in the employ of the Hobart Estate company in the eastern end of the county and a former deputy sheriff under Sheriff John R. Martin in regular service.

Later news are to the effect that injuries to the victims were partially reported as follows: Mr. Witter, right arm broken; Mrs. Witter, two severe cuts on head, bruses; Mrs. Oliver, one arm broken in two places, shoulder dislocated, two ribs broken.

Mrs. Hansen hip broken, rib injuries and cuts.

Establishing Sorority

Banta's Greek Exchange says that "there is no question more frequently asked than the one concerning the formation of a national sorority. There is no cut and dried method of establishing any sort of a sorority or fraternity. A group find themselves in close unity and in thorough harmony and drift together without particular intention to unite. Later the thought of a fraternity comes into their minds as furnishing them a little stronger bond of union. The detail of such work cannot be catalogued or listed. It depends in every way on condition, on location and personnel. In short, it is not a machine-made thing. It does not go by rote or rule." The intersorority conference of 1905 defined a national sorority as one having at least five chapters, all of them at institutions of collegiate rank.—Washington Star.

"CALIFORNIA'S ALL RIGHT."

Appointment of State Senator Thomas A. Maloney, who has just completed the taking of the 1930 census in San Fancisco, for the federal government, as general manager of the campaign against the proposed Daylight Savings law was announced today. Senator Maloney will be in full charge of the entire Northern California section, unifying hundreds of interests opposed to the proposed law. Headquarters will be in the mezzaine floor of the Golden Gate building, San Srancisco.

The fact that Senator Maloney is credited with having compiled most accurate census ever taken in San Francisco, as attested by endorsements from the Chamber of Commerce and various other groupes, led to his selection as campaign manager for Northern California.

"Califoria's all right", the organizatoin which will direct the general campaign against the passage of the bill, is made up of representatives from agricultural organizations, labor unions, welfare bodies, business associations, theatrical groups, film studios, radio stations and many civic bodies. The California legislature itself has turned down the proposed law several times since 1919, the ending proper of the war time period. In addition the proposed law is opposed by every labor unit in the state of California. Some 63,000 American committees have abolished "Daylight Savings" since 1919, leaving now but three per cent of the nation still with daylight savings.

CABLE PLACED UNDER GROUND ACROSS STATE

For the past year 600 men have been digging a trench along highway No. 40 across the state of Missouri. This small army is at work on the construction of an undrground telephone cable between Kansas City and St. Louis, and recently the conduit betwee nthe two cities was jointed at Midway, where eventually the ends of the cross-state telephone cable will meet.

Long distance telephone circuits, hitherto carried across the state on pole lines, will then be placed underground, safe from flood, fre and ice. Over 267 miles in length, the lead-covered cable will provide 250 Long Distance voice channels between St. Louis and Kansas City, and cities between these two places.

Cougar, Hunted Without Mercy, Almost Extinct

The western "cougar," termed variously according to local practice in different parts of North America as "panther," "mountain lion," "catamount," etc., is our largest member of the cat family. It is considered a predatory animal and as such has been hunted so peristently that it is almost extinct in the United States except in a few remote districts of our western mountains.

Consederably smaller than the cougar, the true lynx is still quite a bit larger than the common bobcat or bay lynx. The real lynx is a very shy animal and rarely thrives where the land has been ranched or farmed to any extent. The bobcat, more like the coyote, often lives right under the nose of some harassed farmer, being especially adept at stealing chickens or other farmyard birds.

Of the three felines mentioned, the bobcat can be said as having the most tractable disposition, as neither the lynx nor the cougar submit readily to human training. The cougar somewhat resembles the female African lion in appearance, yet it is rarely used as a show animal, chiefly because it is a most unruly subject for training, sullen and treacherous to the end.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF THE FOREST

"Ten Commandments of the Forest," designed to protect the scenic beauties of California, its timber, water and game, were issued by State Forrester M .B. Pratt.

"The laws of the forest are based on old Ioman law" said Pratt, which provides that no use shall be made of property that will damage another party. When forests burn, streams dry up or game is destroyed because of unlawful acts, all the people of the state suffer."

The most important forest laws were summed up by Pratt's "Ten Commandments" as follows:

1. Leave no camp fire burning. Stir the coals while soaking them with water. Turn small sticks and drench them on both sides. Wet the ground around the fire. If you can't get water, stir in dust and tred it down until packed tight over and around the fire. Be sure the last spark is dead.

2. Throw no burning material away. Break your match in two before throwing it away.

3. Burn no brush or grass without a permit from a fire warden. The state law makes a closed season from May 15 to October 31, during which burning permits are required but several counties have ordinances requiring burning permits the year around.

4. Build no camp fire within a national forest without a permit from a forest ranger. The state law does not require a permit to build a camp fire outside national forests, but provides a severepenalty if the camp fire is left burning.

5. Leave the trees, shrubs, ferns and flowers as you found them. They belong to all. Leave them for all to enjoy. It is not good forest manners to carve your name on trees or to wound them in any way.

6. Destroy no forest signs. They may prevent a fire in your favorite camping spot.

7. Cut no Christmas trees or Christmas berries without the written permission of the owner. The state law provides a penalty for acts of this kind.

8. Do not pollute streams. Leave camp sites clean. Bury all garbage. Treat your camp site as you would your own home.

9. Catch no fish out of season. help the State Fish and Game Commission to keep the streams stocked with fish.

10. Don't kill or molest game out of season. Without wild life our forests would lose mhch of their charm, and if it is to be conserved everybody must obey the state game laws.

Vanilla From Orchids

That the vanilla bean, the extract of which is used in almost every household as flavoring for foods, is provided by the variety of tropical plant called the "orchid" is probably little known by even the best cooks. Orchids are best known for their beautiful flower, emblematic of opulence and fantasy. They grow in their natural state as a parasitic inhabitant of the great trees of the forests in Mexico, Java, Seychelles and Brazil, and are especially common in the banks of the Orinoco river.

CALIFORNIA PLANS SKI - JUMP TRYOUTS FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

California, land of sunshine, will seek to pit her skill against 62 nations of the earth in winter sports to feature the 1932 Olympic games, according to announcements from San Francisco.

Tentative plans have been completed by the Western American Winter Sports Association for qualifying tryouts in Ski jumping and cross-country ski racing to be held at Lake Tahoe during January and February, 1931, according to Jack Mathews, vice president of the association.

These qualifying tests, is was announced, will determine the personnel of California's team of ski stars to enter the Lake Placid Olympic classic in February, 1932.

Ski jumping tests will be made from Tahoe's now famous Olympic Hill, on the slope of which internationally known stars competed early this year, while cross country races woll be held over the rugged slopes from Lake Tahoe to Truckee, Lake Tahoe to Summit, and vice versa, where intervening ridges will necessitate a climb of several thousandd feet.

Olympic Hill, the trajectory of which was built under the direction of Lars Haugen, seventimes National ski champion, is said to equal the famous hills at Lake Placid and St. Moritz.

All amateur aspirants of the West will be invited to the qualifying tests according to the announcement, witn the strictest rules governing the competition in order to insure the finest California team possible for the olympic games participation.

Entrants must be citizens of the United States on or before the date of the Lake Placid finals in 1932, it is pointed out, and must be amateurs in the fullest sense of the word.

The tryouts of January and February are expected to provide California with the greatest winter sports program in its history.

Extreme Degrees of Cold

Air can be liquefied by cooling to a temperature of 140 degrees below zero centigrade or 222 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, and by compressing it to about 39 atmospheres pressure. Absolute zero, which is theoretically the lowest possible temperature that can be reached, is equivalent to 273.1 degrees below zero centrigrade or 459.6 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, the lowest temperature attained is—272.8 degrees C.

Holland's Two Capitals

Amsterdam is the legal capital of The Netherlands; The Hague is the actual capital. In other words, the Dutch constitution recognizes Amsterdam as the only legal capital, while The Hague is the seat of government and the regular residence of the sovereign. The constitution provides that the sovereign must spend at least eight days each year in Amsterdam, and all royal baptisms, marriages and coronations must take place in that city.

NEVADA CITY BLUES DEFEAT FORESTERS 10 TO 4 IN SUNDAY'S GAME

No one really enjoys a season of blues, but Nevada City is justly proud of the Blues and instead of drooping when they appear on the scene, the whole city chirks right up and grins.

We had reason to grin broadly last Sunday when the Nevada City Blues played their final game, defeating the Foresters in a fast game and making an enviable record of 10 to 4.

The Blues consist of a team picked from the finest young men in Nevada City, and the town is expecting big things of them next baseball season when they will have had more time to their credit.

Last Sunday's game was played with a team which has been established longer and is composed of older men.

TAX REDUCTION— A CALL TO ARMS

Taxation involves the families and homes of every community. It effects the prices of everything that pople buy. The upward trend of taxes during the past decade has been a tragedy, for it has brought discouragement and broken plans to the homeowner. Heavy tax burdens are demoralizing. The dark ages came because so much of the people's earnings was taken by government.

Many people have adoptde a feeling of helplessness with regard to their tax problems. They say "what's the use? There is nothing we can do to bring taxes down." So longa s this spirit prevails nothing will b edone and taxes will increase.

What each community in California needs is is a campaign for tax reduction. It can be done! Taxpayers can co-operate with their public officials and support them in their efforts to eliminate wastes, improve th epublic service and adopt definite budget plans.

The property is being operated under the direction of Mr. Hood, who is the controlling owner of the Mayflower Gold Mines Consolidated, Ltd., and mining operations are under the direction of M. Ivan Dow, general manager, S. A. Sweet, chief engineer with an international reputation and James Lewis ,superintendent of operation at the Greenman mine.

Strike Made Last Week.

It is in this locational that actual work is now under way and a blast in the 400 level on Wednesday afternoon uncovered a ledge from 4 to 6 feet in width and carrying a high percentage of free gold. This is believed to be the best and largest vein of high value gold ore that has ever been uncovered in this property.

Mr. Hood states that the Mayflower shows great promise of future production and will make one of, if not the richest gold producers in the district.

He states further that the program outlined for his corporations the Mayflower Gold Mines Consolidated, Ltd., and the Mayflower Gold Mines Inc., the only corporations which operate his interests, will give to Nevada City mining district another producing gold mine.

Shenandoah Not Known.

In connection with the corporate operation of the mine, Mr. Hood states that he has no knowledge of the so-called Shenandoah Mining company with which his name has been associated by a San Francisco paper, and that it has no interest in the operation of the Mayflwer Mines, and that he has no interest in any such company.

Additional machinery and equipment is now being installed and will give these mines a production capacity second only to the Empire and North Star mines. The first unit will mill 225 tons per day and the second unit will mill a like amount, giving a daily output of 450 tons per 24 hours.

A contract will be let for the sinking of a three-compartment shaft to the depth of 1000 feet, which it is estimated will cut one million dollars worth of ore every hundred feet.

Dow Gives Credit.

No article in regard to the Mayflower mines would be complete without a tribute to M. Ivan Dow for his indefatigable industry in bringing capital here to open the property. His faith in the property and his years of effort to have it properly opened up and developed in the face of most discouraging conditions seem now to be awarded with a complete fruition.

MINERAL OUTPUT OF NATION OVER FIVE BILLION DOLLARS THIS YEAR FAR ABOVE LAST

The value of mineral products of the nation in 1929 was $5,830,000,000 or 8 per cent greater than the value of the 1928 mineral output, says the United States Bureau of Mines, Department of Commerce, in a statistical review. The upward trend was however, neither general nor uniform and did not bring the total to preceding high levels of the last decade—$6,213,600,000 in 9126, a year of marked prosperity and $5,986,500,000 in 1923 and $6,981,340,000 in 1920, two years of high price levels.

Comparisons for the major groups of mineral industries show that the total value of minerals produced in 1929has been exceeded only twice —in 1923 and 1920—in the past decade; that the total value of all nonmetalic products, except fuels, was less in 1929 than in any year of the decade except the first three; and that the value of all mineral fuels in 1929 surpassed that for each year of the decade except 1926, 1923, and 1920.

The mineral fuels as a group show an increase of about 11 per rent in total value of products, attributable chiefly to a large gain in the value of petroleum produced and commensurate gains in the value of natural gas and natural gasoline, whereas the value of the bituminous coal output increased only moderately and the value of anthracite showed no material change. However, the moderate increase in 1929 in the quantity and value of bituminous coal mined and in the quantity of anthracite mined are noteworthy, as they follow two years of declining output.

Petroleum production passed the 1,000,000,000-barrel mark in 1929, an increase of more than 12 per cent over 1928. The value of the year's output increased in even greater ratio despite the accumulation of stocks due to the extraordinary rate of production in the first half of the year. The sales of natural gas and natural gasoline continued strong in growth throughout 1929.

The total value of metalic products of the mines of the United States was about 15 per. cent greater in 1929 than in 1928. Except for gold and silver, all the important metals contributed to this increase, of which nearly one-half was accounted for by a great increase in the value of copper. Whereas the smelter output of copper in the United States increased ten per cent the total value increased 34 per cent; the average price for the year was higher by 3.2 cents per pound, or 22 per cent, than that for 1928.

Production and consumption of copper continued at a high rate throughout 1929, but production so far outdistanced consumption as to cause an accumulation of stocks of refined copper at the end of the year more than two and one-half times the stocks at the beginning of the year. This condition was followed by recession in both price and buying after the close of the first quarter of 1930.

In lesser degree the lead, zinc, and aluminum industries also benifitted by increased output and higher price levels in 1929 as compared with 1928. The production of steel reached a new high level, exceeding 1928 production by about 9 per cent, and and concomitantly shipments of pig iron reached a new peak total of 8 per cent in quantity above 1928.

Although not keeping pace with the output of steel and pig iron, the shipments of iron ore were 19 per cent greater in 1929 than in 1928. Values of both pig iron and iron ore also averaged higher in 1929 than in 1928. The production of high grade manganese ore in 1929 showed the first increase since 1925 by reason of sustained operation of a process of beneficiating carbonate ores.

Production of mercury was nearly one-third greater in quantity and value in 1929 than in 1928 and was the largest annual output sine 1918. Gold production declined about oneper cent. The quantity of silver produced increased moderately, but the average and total value decreased.

Detailed tables show the productin f the differen tminerals in the United States as a whole and in each State separately are given in the preliminary snmmary of "Mineral Resources of the United States, 1929," just issued by the United States Bureau of Mines. Copies of this report may be obtained from the Superintndent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., at a price of 20 cents.

OIL CASE IN KETTLEMAN HILLS STARTS OCTOBER 6.

The court contest to determine whether further unregulated developement of Kettleman Hills can be halted by the new gas conservation law will start in Superior Court October 6th.

Superior judge S. L. Strother of Fresno, it is understood, set the date for a hearing of arguments of the state's request for a temporary injunction against the 28 oil companies defending the action, pending the settlement of the case.

The actual trial date is expected to be set at a time later in the month.

Attorneys for the oil companies said yesterday that they had slight hopes for the defendants reaching a workable agreement for a conservation program in developing the field.

MARY L. CARKEET, WAR WORKER HERE, PASSES

The following beautiful tribute is clipped from the Morning Union of Thursday, September 25.

Mrs. Mary L. Carkeet of Bakersfield, passed away early yesterday morning at the home of her son. Arthur M. Carkeet, in Sacramento, her death following an illness of only a week. She was enroute to this city, her former home, on a visit when illness attacked her.

Mrs. Carkeet made her nome in Nevada City for many years, removing from here after the war and making her home in other parts of the state. Since leaving here she has often visited friends in Nevada City, and was greatly loved by all who knew her.

During the World war, Mrs. Carkeet was a constant and helpful worker in the local Red Cross Chapter, having charge of the knitting department. And it was due largely to her skill and supervision that this branch of Nevada City's service to the Red Cross made for itself a most enviable reputation. No rush order for knitted garments at that stirring time was too great to receive her consideration, and somehow be filled.

And she was a peace time worker, too, for she went about doing good. Friends in this city will remember her kindly ministrations to a number of old ladies, who, had it not been for her kindness, would have truly suffered. Her thoughts were always for others and not for herself. Her sudden passing will be deeply regretted by those in the city who knew her, and the sympathy of old friends will go out to the bereft husband and son.

She is survived by her husband, Richard Carkeet and one son, Arthur M. Carkeet, also a number of newphews and nieces in various parts of the state.

The funeral was held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Sacramento.

PINE PRODUCTS MANAGER SPEAKS AT LUNCHEON

At the luncheon of the Grass Valley Lions Club Tuesday evening, N. T. Mirov was introduced as speaker to the club by Program Chairman Robert E. Carr.

The talk given by Mr. Mirov, who succeeds the late F. C. Ernst, as manager of the California Timber Products cmpany of Nevada City, was recived with great appreciation, and has been conceded one of the best of the year.

Mr. Mirov is a native Russian scientist and prefaced his address with a brief resume of his early life. He was born in Siberia, has done research work in China and came to California in 1923 when he was engaged in research and turpentine experimental work in the University of California, finding new uses for turpentine and new by-products of pine timber.

In speaking of his work in Nevada City, he said he found both satisfactory and unsatisfactory conditions conditions governing experiments here, the Nevada City plant being the expermimental station for turpentine and resin in California.

Mirov mentioned the difficulties here as being the closeness to Mexican turpentine competition, high cost of labor as compared to southern states, and the lack of summer moisture necessary to produce faster "bleeding" of trees. Compared to this, he declared that California pines produced by-products that coould be found in no other state in the Union, and that the outlook was satisfactory for another year of work in the Nevada City field.

Mr. Mirov closed his remarks with an invitation to the members of the club to visit the plant at Nevada City where they would be shown some of the by-products of the pine timber factory.

LAND SHOW ATTRACTS BIG CROWD ON "OLD TIMES DAY"

Sunday at the Marysville, Sacramento Valley Land Show, was undoubtedly the biggest day at the fair, both in attendance and in the nature of entertainment.

Nevada, Yuba, Butte, Colusa and Sutter counties have paraded their agricultural resources to thousands and Sunday a climax was reached, in having Mayor James Rolph present to address them on agricultural subjects.

Nevada county has again scored high, Peardale having won the grand sweepstakes prize through the collaboration of the farm center of that community. This award was made on the basis of first, second and third places—won by exhibit against the strongest kind of competition. A total of 141 points was taken by Peardale exhibit against 134 by the Muestro Farm Center of Sutter county—the closest competitor.

Mrs. Ammy Van Duzer and J. R. Davis have received approbation from all sides for their indefatiguable efforts in obtaining the finest materials and displaying them in the most attractive way.

D. M. Loney, president of the Nevada county form bureau was unstinted in his praise of the effort put forth by leaders in farm centers over the county, and his sentiments ewre echoed by assistant Farm Advisor Herman Graser of Sutter county.
